"The Little Medicine Carrier" is the story of a young boy, George Wayland, who carries and delivers the medicines for a country doctor to the ill people of neighboring villages. During his travels, George finds many opportunities to do good, and experiences challenging situations which teach him the importance of resisting temptation and being honest in all his work.

This little volume is one of eleven stories in the Children's Character Building Collection, our popular reprints of 19th-century Christian books for young children.
