This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1914 edition. Excerpt: ...Penn's three; whereas, if Vollmer had been disqualified instead of Shryock, Penn would have had first and second, eight points to Columbia's one. The curious point about the incident is that Vollmer, the Columbia freshman and former N. Y. A. C. star, collided with Shryock in the latter's lam. The meeting of the intercollegiate committee considered Penn's protest, but did nothing about it. I am in possession of some extremely interesting him, so Haas played guard, while Jackson and Ferree played forwards. Ferree has won his place over Paulson because he fits into the teamwork better, even though he is slower than his rival. Princeton's passing Saturday night was often beautiful to watch, for its swiftness and accuracy. The men seem to have taken to heart the lesson of the Yale game, viz., that long shots are likely to fail. Haas tried quite a few and succeeded in the majority of his attempts. It is quite easy to see now why Dartmouth is at the bottom of the league table. They simply can't shoot. It was well along in the second half, after Princeton had made several substitutions, before the visitors succeeded in making their first field goal. They rallied well toward the end, but Princeton easily held the lead. The summary: P RINCETON alumni living in Plattsburgh, N. Y., recently entertained the High School Club of that place in the Y. M. C. A. rooms and at a local theatre. The entertainment included stereopticon views and moving pictures of Princeton, and light refreshments. Accompanying the stereopticon views were talks by ohn P. Myers '08 on "Princeton's Buildings and Campus"; Captain Courtland Nixon '95 on "Class Rivalry"; the Rev. John Bailey Kelly '00 on "Self Improvement and the Ilonor System..."
